And the AI result is back...

AI Mode

Rick Mark is a prominent software and security researcher best known for his extensive work on Apple's T2 security chip (<https://blog.rickmark.me/chain-and-the-t2/>) and low-level platform security.

His research often highlights vulnerabilities in Apple hardware and firmware that the company cannot easily fix through software updates.

Key Security Research

- Apple T2 Chip Vulnerability: Mark gained significant attention for detailing an exploit vulnerability in the T2's SecureROM, which could potentially allow root access during the boot process.
- Open Source Contributions: He has previously ported the model bootrom to work with the Apple T1, providing a free tool to restore the chip outside of the official Apple Configurator.
- Apple Silicon Weaknesses: He has published security analyses regarding the weaknesses of the M1 chip, specifically focusing on its bootloader and the Apple USB-C port controller.
- Reverse Engineering: On his personal blog and GitHub profile, he maintains machine-readable databases of Apple hardware and reverse-engineered documentation for various iOS firmware components.

Professional Background

Beyond his independent research, Rick Mark has professional experience as a software developer and security researcher with a background that includes work as a Privacy Engineer. He is also associated with the T2 Jailbreak team, focusing on Apple's T2 chip vulnerabilities.

To Whom it May Concern,

In Spring of 2022 Robert Mark assaulted Alexander Mentele. He confided this in me when he came to Spokane and recovered from said injuries, and took a bribe to not at the time of the police report include Rob's name. Upon Alex's continued harassment, discrediting and eventual murder, it became obvious to me that Rob Mark was the likely cause of his death. Myself and later my mother made this statement as we both were and are concerned that such actions may have then continued in my life, as well as my families. Over the course of the last the time since then, my father seems to have been implicated in multiple acts designed to discredit, endanger and defame me. These acts enable Rob's harassment and assault to continue unabated. The deeply concerning fact is though I've been brave enough to come forward (to my own harm) their belief that doing as Rob tells them to do will save them from harm has become beyond dangerous not just to myself, but those I still love and care for despite their despicable acts. Rob's intent here is to one, place the entirety of years of abuse upon them, or to frame me for a murder to harm me. This began with my father granting access to my home, continued in his assistance in isolation of myself, and finally in harmful lies on a court record designed to discredit and make me out to be unstable and dangerous. This included both limiting my ability care for despite their despicable acts. Rob's intent here is to one, place the entirety of years of abuse upon them, or to frame me for a murder to harm me. This began with my father granting access to my home, continued in his assistance in isolation of myself, and finally in harmful lies on a court record designed to discredit and make me out to be unstable and dangerous. This included both limiting my ability to tell this story thereby making it difficult to impossible to prevent, as well as claiming I'm mentally ill while not expecting a court to restrict my access to weapons. Further, upon refuting the false claim about my mental health, he then assisted in yet more efforts to discredit. This is dangerous. His refusal to correct the record, with the claim that it would jeopardize his job or reputation is in no way reason to continue to create a dangerous pretext and the pretense that would allow such a crime to go forward without fear that Rob would be held to account. Should he not willingly go correct his false statements, I fear that others will come to harm and so he in my opinion is a danger to himself and others, and should be fully prosecuted in any and all ways to ensure the safety of others. This type of thinking is also indicative of the fact that he is not capable of making decisions about the safety of those in his stewardship and I further fear for the passengers he flies. I myself would not get onto a plane with him in command.
