Well that's what is the problem with some family enabling a rampage, they might have to go down the list to find someone still trusted or not complicit - but given their hands are clean and they can be shown to be supportive I won't enable the to make the Sam kinds of choices that ruined others lives

What we proved last time: if I convince people and I tell the truth - no one comes forward and I'm about to be assaulted - this time I'd prefer to see it coming

So here's what is so fun

When S Grant Russell was able to text and invite me while I know my phone was not able to be reliable... it became obvious to me what that meant since I could only talk to abusers... his connection to Ap... See more

Now we are at the phase I worry that Rob will harm or prepare to harm someone to cause me to harm myself (that by the way is not consent)

15 minutes elapsed - they failed to replace their theft -
Brad and dad will never be argued in a court as anyone

Let's go over this - if at this stage you so much as permit a single cigarette to be taken and stand idly by - you are thereby again just as culpable for everything I can buy your immunity out of because that still qualifies as "torture" lately but I'll just use that to hurt each participant not be as screwed by as they will

Having a "problem with drugs" because consent isn't a thing isn't the same as an attempt to make appear I have a "drug problem" - blame this in my family for condoning the lack of choice in the matter

I'll bet a massive amount of ketamine from the liberty lake indigo missing will film in these gaps in the record - the DSA can take them and rob mark out for it

Let the DEA turn that place over there upside down - let the person who worked do TriCare who caused the insurance fraud be shown

It should never be my job to make back Liberty Lake polices's failings and their protection of Rob Mark - but massive ketamine to prevent sufficient memory precision to be able to create a full and detailed report can be countered with a massive PTSD memory trauma response - plus the intent to create a post facto reason for any physical evidence such as DNA or fingerprint - I'm kept from any support network and the only humans who I'm allowed to interact with are exactly those who assaulted me

Why did that ATF claim at the time not become an issue? It was paid for out of my chase account, we went to tiffanies after picking it up at his behest to pick a better ring - it was a straw purchase or it was partners

Now does anyone fly (I paid on the way there - he paid back) their "partner" who they signed a SSDP with to Houston for new years that had moved their stuff into their house - or buy a gun together (it was my chase card that paid) to keep in said home if the guy is "unstable"

Here's his felony lie:

10 find that Rick had tricked a friend of ours— Stephen Staat, who also filed a declaration—into 11 moving all of my most important personal items (like pictures, diplomas, certificates, military 12 gear, basically everything that wasn't furniture) to his apartment in Seattle. We had only been 13 together for about two months at the time, and we had not discussed moving in together. I had 14 certainly not told him that I wanted him to move my things into his home, and I was not 15 particularly comfortable with the situation. About a month later, though, Rick did something that 16 made that look normal; he went to the courthouse and legally changed his last name to mine. We 17 weren't engaged, no one had proposed, we weren't married, nothing like that. We had had one 18 conversation about the future, and he changed his name. At that point, I started to try to figure 19 out how I could safely extricate myself from this relationship. I cared about Rick as a person and 20 was concerned for his well-being—he was suicidal at the time—but I didn't want to date this guy 21 anymore. After six months, I moved my things out of his apartment and ended the relationship.

To: Mark Richard Kenneth <rickmark@outlook.com>

To Whom It May Concern,

I am a Neuroradiologist in Spokane Washington and I have been a friend of Rick Mark and his family for many years. I have observed Rick in many situations and circumstances and have not observed any behaviors that I feel warrant a mental health evaluation.

Sincerely,

Robert Handy, M.D.

Now here's the kicker - Do you think one president and another presidential candidate want to be associated with a plot to murder small children, or a second sex trafficking ring.... so if the option is to hold those who did the crimes to set that up accountable to stop it from happening, then I will have no ability to stop them...

But let me be clear, in a very legal sense - if he breaks the no contact and comes near me and my home, then the order becomes null and void in that instant

Rick Mark

Apr 16 ·

Next thing that will happen will be the enforcing of a stupid order because I saw what was coming and can't stand for that, a rapid release and that enhancing the pretext and it happening anyway....

Rick Mark

Apr 16 ·

Now if you don't believe an illegal order obtained with a lie, which sets up a dangerous pretext that originated with my brother and culminated in falsehoods about my mental health, with legal access to weapons, is the Chekov's gun that it is and that the only way to prevent such an outcome is to back away from that setup... you're stupid

So someone who states their son is mentally ill (clear documentation I am not), and suggests they have access to firearms - while continuing to isolate them is a monster - especially if that person were to be assaulted (yet again)

To Whom it May Concern:

Richard has been under my care since February 2023 for a variety of chronic and acute conditions. During this time he has been evaluated by myself and multiple behavioral health specialists and been actively managed for depression, ADHD, and anxiety due to C-PTSD. At no point in time has he been diagnosed with or suspect to have a perceptual disorder and does not have any active substance use disorders. In my professional opinion, Richard has been well managed with a combination of medications and supportive social interactions.

Now Rob's still fighting reality - he thinks a single harm from that Saturday on won't be corrected. Remember he's not smart or rich enough to fix his mistakes walk away and get away with anything...

Rick Mark

Apr 15 ·

Now I'm exactly one moment before taking that assault and his participation to a report and suit... because the person who helped still seems convinced that I should have to suffer that insulting decision he made

Rick Mark

Apr 15 ·

I interviewed - I did so with a safety plan, and I had time stolen in another assault, then was made to ransom someone (since it's the same person who babysat because a family member dropped me like some worthless bag of potatoes) - that would only have happened if the opportunity would have come to be realized, meaning I'm owed for that grievance by all participants

Now law of unintended consequence is a very funny thing. The second a statement was made public that increased my credibility and was the truth, Rob was so terrified of that control of the narrative that his attempt to discredit it was ALMOST instant... that makes it beyond credulity that it wasn't the cause of the next event.

I showed some history and facts publicly Friday. I got McDonalds for breakfast Saturday morning.... Then another assault like that one from Friday occurred - within hours - to attempt to re-control that narrative. That was causal - that shows exactly what happens and why it happens. He was attempting to do anything even when there's no choice and I fall asleep in my home, to discredit so fast - that he knows how scary it is if I have the truth known and credibility on my side. He worked all the half truths into another frame job... while it seems my GitHub went wild... again if in this narrative I'm not even in front of said computer...

He always tries to do too many types of damage and all too quickly.. his lack of control and insatiable indulgence of his addiction is his downfall
